Subject: Microsoft Transgressions

While I am a firm supporter of Microsoft operating systems and products, which I believe are the best available, I feel the focus should be on Microsoft's control of the IHVs/ISVs. Microsoft controls the content, form, and function of third-party products through incentives and programs for manufacturers and their 'Logo Certification Process', ostensibly a quality control program but in practice a way to dictate feature sets and behavior of non-Microsoft hardware and software.

thanks,
